

LOUISVILLE 1963

And this, to bring the history of the past 125 years up to date, is downtown Louisville today. It is a sprawling city, this Louisville, the business and trade center of an area of nearly 800,000 population. The city has known good times and bad during its long years, but always it has kept rolling with the punches and coming back stronger from adversity.